

NATION PAYS TRIBUTE TO WAR DEAD

POSSES HUNTING SLAYERS

WOMAN KILLED WHEN HOLD-UP EFFORT FAILS

Disappointed In Robbery, Trio Kills Victim

ASHTABULA, O., May 30. An intensive search was being made throughout northern Ohio today for three highwaymen who mercilessly shot and killed Mrs. Clara Smith, 28, on the little-traveled Saybrook Center road near here last night while her husband and two small children looked on.

The young mother was slain during a holdup after the robbers had searched T. L. Smith, 26, local trucking contractor, and his wife and failed to find any loot.

Mrs. Smith was taken to a hospital at Geneva where it was found that she had been killed by a 32-caliber bullet. The bullet was extracted from her head during an autopsy, which showed that she had died almost instantly.

Smith was taking his family to Austintown, five miles south of here, to spend Memorial Day with relatives, he told police.

When they reached an isolated part of the road, Smith said, he saw a large sedan parked along the side of the road with two men standing beside it. A third man was sitting in the driver's seat. One of the men leveled a gun at Smith as he neared the spot and ordered him to stop his small truck.

"They searched us and didn't find anything," Smith told authorities. "They got mad and when I told them I didn't have a watch, one of them said, 'well I'll give you something!' and fired. I ducked and the bullet struck my wife in the head."

When they saw that Mrs. Smith was shot, the bandit trio jumped into their automobile and fled toward Warren, south of here. Smith ran to a nearby filling station where he notified the sheriff's office and a large posse was organized to search for the gunmen.

The children who witnessed the slaying of their mother, two boys are three months and three years old.

GENERAL CHIANG WOUNDED IN BATTLE

SHANGHAI, May 30.—The Nationalist government at Nanking today confirmed a report that General Chiang Kai-Shek was wounded during the fighting against northern allied rebels along the Lung-hai Railroad front.

The report from Nanking merely said that Chiang was wounded in the leg.

LONDON, May 30.—General Chiang Kai-Shek, generalissimo of the Chinese Nationalist forces, and president of the Chinese Nationalist government, was wounded during an engagement with northern allied rebel troops along the Lung-hai Railroad, according to a dispatch from Shanghai to the London Times today.

The Times' dispatch said that the northern allies were the authorities for the report of General Chiang being wounded. There was no indication in this report as to the seriousness or nature of the wound.

WARNS AGAINST LAW DAMAGING LIBERTY

CINCINNATI, O., May 30.—Calling upon the nation to guard against the encroachment of present-day law, including the prohibition act, on the liberty of the people, Dr. Clelland Boyd McAfee, rector of the Presbyterian Church in America, delivered his farewell address to the one hundred and forty-second assembly of that denomination yesterday.

He warned also that the present-day laws may reshape the nation's attitude toward law, and emphasized the greatly-increasing failure of America's churches of all denominations to meet the issues of the day. Dr. McAfee also criticized the failure to solve the questions of family life, marriage and divorce.

HOLD-UP VICTIMS

Police of Los Angeles have been searching for a lone masked bandit who boarded a crack Santa Fe train and robbed several passengers, including two Hollywood celebrities, Marian Nixon, top lost two diamond rings, valued at $11,000, at the point of the bandit's gun. Screams of Ruby Keeler, below, actress wife of Al Jolson, frightened the gunman into jumping from the train, his pockets bulging with loot.

FEDERAL OFFICERS PROBE LOVE BUREAU CASE IN CLEVELAND

Scheme Cost Nearly Million Dollars From Victims

CLEVELAND, May 30.—Federal authorities were concentrating their efforts in Cleveland today as the reputed headquarters for a nationwide "love bureau," which has swindled hundreds of men and women of nearly a million dollars. Belief that activities of the ring centered in Cleveland was established yesterday with the arrest of Herbert Nathaniel Wheeler, at the fashionable Copley-Plaza Hotel at Boston. Wheeler was arrested on a fugitive of justice warrant charging him with using the mails to defraud, federal authorities revealed.

One of the victims, who federal agents said has lost $60,000 in the swindle, is listed as Nina B. Cox, believed to be an Ohio woman.

Officials said that Wheeler operated his racket through the Doris Dawn Matrimonial Club, of Cleveland. It was said that Wheeler advertised through the club as a bachelor seeking matrimony, thus becoming acquainted with wealthy women who gave him money after a proposal of marriage had been made.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS GET LONG HOLIDAY

COLUMBUS, O., May 30.—Regular Memorial Day observances here today marked the inception of a three-day holiday for many Columbus residents.

State, federal, county, city and business offices were closed, together with schools, banks and stores. Most business places will remain closed until Monday.

"Remembrance"

No marble minarets; no Halls of Fame, That rise to lofty heights, can e'er attain, The honors, and unstinted praise, The homage that a nation pays, To her heroic dead!

We who remain, should remember then, As we tread the paths of silent men, And marvel at the supreme price, They paid, by way of sacrifice, And kneel at their shrine!

As the sun sinks low in the western sky, And lends its carmen tint to beauty, And symbolize the blood of men, Sweet mystery beyond our ken, We bow our heads!

THIRTY-EIGHT ARE ENTERED IN ANNUAL AUTOMOBILE DERBY

Two-Man Speeders Return To Track Again This Year

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—Thirty-eight racing cars, their powerful motors warmed and ready, awaited the starter today in the eighteenth annual 500-mile automobile derby.

Thirty-eight drivers, the largest entry list since the race of 1911, were ready to roar away at 10 a. m. (C. S. T.) each with a mechanic seated beside him. For the first time in seven years the 500 mile race is going back to the two man cars, bringing with it the possibility of added injuries and death, perhaps, in the event that smash-ups mar the grind.

For five hours and a fraction the pilots will push their cars around the huge two and a half mile brick oval in their dizzy race for $100,000 and added prizes. To the winner will go $40,000.

A number of changes in the qualifications have brought an added interest into this year's race. In addition to the two-man car feature stock and near-stock cars are competing today. Stock cars have replaced the tiny speed bullets of former years due to the increase in piston displacement of the motors from 9 1/2 to 330 cubic inches.

The cars have been limited to two carburetors per motor, requiring an unusual perfection in carburetion, according to the experts. Supercharges have been ruled out entirely, thus eliminating what the racing boys call the "blowers," so handy when quick acceleration is required.

Once more front drives and rear drives meet in competition in today's battle of motors. Sixteen cylinder motors make their debut in American racing here.

More than 100,000 persons began to gather at the track this morning, many as early as dawn. A clear sky and a cool breeze offered almost ideal conditions for spectators and drivers alike.

Louis Meyer, a youth from South Gate, Calif., driving one of the sixteen cylinder jobs, was a favorite to take the honors. Meyer was champion driver in 1928 and 1929.

Another favorite was Peter De Paolo, victor in the 500 mile derby in 1925 and 1927. The other veterans include Jimmy Gleason, Tony Gulotta, Phil Shafer, Deacon Litz, L. L. Corum, Lou Moore and Louis Schneider.

Billy Arnold, Chicago, has the pole position with his eight cylinder, front wheel drive car. Next to him is Louis Meyer, with his 16 cylinder rear drive. The front row is completed with a four cylinder, rear drive, driven by "Shorty" Canton.

DR. KERR ELECTED CHURCH MODERATOR

CINCINNATI, O., May 30.—Dr. Hugh T. Kerr, pastor of Shady-side Church, Pittsburgh, today occupies the position of moderator of the 142nd Presbyterian General Assembly, of the United States, in session here.

He was chosen by a vote of 605 to 303 last Thursday, succeeding Dr. Clelland B. McAfee, Chicago. Dr. Kerr, who defeated Dr. Henry B. Master, secretary of the board of pension of the Presbyterian Church, in the contest for moderator, has been pastor of Shady-side Church since 1913.

A memorial service held today was in charge of Dr. William Hiram Foulkes, formerly of Cleveland, who talked on "The Unfinished Roll Call."

HIT-AND-RUN AUTOIST HITS PEDESTRIAN

Victim Removed To Hospital; Suffers Skull Fracture

Victim of a "hit-skip" motorist, C. C. Anderson, 44, colored, 225 Columbus St., was removed by police Thursday night to McClellan Hospital, where an examination disclosed he suffered a brain concussion and possible skull fracture as a result of being struck by an auto on Whitman St.

Anderson had not regained consciousness Friday morning and while the full extent of his injuries had not been determined, physicians at the hospital are hopeful of his recovery.

Complete details of the accident were not available at Police Headquarters. It was reported, however, that the unidentified autoist who ran down Anderson had previously driven away hurriedly from a filling station without paying for gas and oil and that he was driving at a high rate of speed along Whitman St. when his car hit the colored man.

The autoist drove on without stopping.

JONES, VOIGT WIN FROM BRITISHERS; ENTER SEMI-FINALS

Bobby Overcomes An Opening Shot Into Garbage Can

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 30.—Bobby Jones, king pin of American golfers, and George Voigt, the only other remaining American Walker cup player, won their way to the semi-finals in the British Amateur championship today. Jones conquered young Eric Fiddian of Scotland, four and three, and Voigt defeated Willie Sutton of Scotland five up and four to play.

Jones started off poorly by poling his first tee shot into a garbage can, losing the hole. But he squared matters on the next hole and went into the lead at the fourth. From then on he was never headed by his young opponent, a tall, fresh faced chap of 20. At the turn Jones was four up, and that was his margin of victory when the match ended.

Cards: Jones (out) 5 4 4 4 3 4 3 4—25 Fiddian (out) 4 6 4 5 5 4 4 4—40 Jones (in) 4 3 4 4 5 4 Fiddian (in) 4 4 3 4 5 4 Jones, 4 and 3.

Like Jones, Voigt got away to a slow start, becoming one down at the second, but once he caught and passed Sutton, he was never headed. He became two up at the turn and gradually pulled away until his victory was clinched.

Cards: Voigt (out) 5 5 4 4 3 4 3 4—35 Sutton (out) 4 5 4 5 5 4 3 4—38 Voigt (in) 4 3 4 4 4 4 Sutton (in) 4 4 4 4 5 5 Voigt, 5 and 4.

VETOES PENSION BILL

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Hoover's veto of the Spanish-American War pension bill will be acted upon by the senate at 3 p. m. Monday afternoon, it was decided today by unanimous consent.

PLANE RETURNS AFTER SOUTH AMERICA START

HARTFORD, Conn., May 30.—The plane K of New Haven returned out of Brainerd Field an hour after it had made a clean start on its attempted non-stop flight to South America.

According to announcement by the pilot, the re-fueling plane had run out of gasoline for its own motor although the re-fueling tank was full.

A second start was in prospect as soon as the re-fueling plane had taken on a load of gas.

PRESIDENT IS MEMORIAL DAY SPEAKER AT BATTLEFIELD SITE

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Hoover today makes a Memorial Day pilgrimage to Gettysburg, where, this afternoon, he will deliver the principal address in honor of the memory of those who fought and died in the Civil War. He will be the fifth chief executive to speak at the battlefield site since Lincoln voiced his epochal appeal for preservation of the union.

The eighty-five mile journey from Washington is to be made by motor, and following the ceremonies at the cemetery Mr. Hoover plans to continue to the fishing lodge of Jay Cooke, 3rd, Philadelphia financier, for a week-end of fishing. Cooke's preserve is located about thirty miles from Williamsport, Pa., on Larry's Creek, a tributary of the Susquehanna River.

Accompanying the president will be Secretary of War Hurley, secretaries to the president George Akerson and Lawrence Richey, Colonel Campbell Hodges, the military aide, and Captain Joel T. Boone, the White House physician. Departure is scheduled for 9:30 a. m., with a stop for luncheon at Richey's camp near Catocin Furnace, Md.

Governor John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, will meet the presidential party at Gettysburg and escort the members to the cemetery, later introducing Mr. Hoover for his speech.

Cooke's place is known as Ogoon Lodge. The president is no stranger to the trout stream that runs through the estate, having fished there last in 1928. Cooke was a guest at the Hoover fishing camp on the Rapidan in Virginia last week-end.

Administration spokesmen predicted considerable debate in the house but said in the end the bill would be enacted private forecasts varying from June 6 to June 26.

Its approval will mark but half the tariff war in the senate. The conferees divided the reform into two sections. The first section must be acted on later. This will develop parliamentary objections to the rates placed by the conferees on cheese, cherries, rayon and watches. With Vice President Curtis ready to uphold the points of order, administration leaders were considering whether to try to overrule him. It will require a majority vote on each item to set aside the vice president's ruling.

TWENTY INJURED IN NEW SALT RAIDS

LONDON, May 30.—Twenty Indian Nationalists were injured today in new attempts to raid the government salt depot at Dharsana, according to dispatches to the London evening newspapers.

Two groups of Indian congress volunteers attempted to raid the salt pans, the dispatches declared. The entire first batch was arrested. Police charged the second, inflicting numerous injuries.

BOMBAY, May 30.—Sporadic rioting and street-fighting continued today in Rangoon, according to latest reports from that town city of labor conflict.

The known death toll was more than 170 and a check-up may bring it past 200. Wounded and injured numbered nearly 1,000.

GRAF PASSES OVER SAN JUAN IS REPORT

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The Graf Zeppelin passed over San Juan, Porto Rico, shortly after daylight this morning, according to a wireless message received by the naval communication office.

The message gave no details as to weather and merely reported the dirigible's position.

The giant ship was sighted at 5:05 a. m. (E. S. T.).

The message was from the naval radio station at San Juan and merely reported that the Graf passed over at that hour.

The army sees in the dirigibles an important use as an "aerial ferry" in time of war, Maj. Hickman explained. It may be necessary to move airplanes from one part of the country to another. With the planes must go men and materials to maintain them. Transportation by any method but the air would be too slow, and the dirigible is the vehicle the army wants.

The greatest advantage the United States has in the operation of dirigibles, according to experts, is an inexhaustible supply of helium, non-inflammable gas.

CONGRESS ORATORY SILENCED TO JOIN MEMORIAL PROGRAM

Legislative Wars Will Be Resumed Next Monday

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The oratorical guns of congress, that have roared in legislative warfare for the last eighteen months, were turned today on patriotic subjects as house and senate joined the nation in paying Memorial Day tribute to the nation's hero dead.

The capitol, with flags flying, was silent, while senators and representatives scattered to nearby states to participate in Memorial Day celebrations.

The legislative wars will be resumed Monday, with the tariff dominating over all other problems. Administration leaders hoped to enact it next week or the week thereafter and predicted President Hoover would sign the bill.

The president has gained prestige in the last few days of senate warfare over the new flexible tariff clause. He improved his political position when Senator Watson (R) of Indiana, announced that Mr. Hoover wanted the tariff taken out of politics and recommended a non-partisan tariff of commission empowered to fix all future rate-changes; subject only to a presidential veto. He said the president had favored the feature that made him act within sixty days.

Watson pictured the president as one who did not seek additional power through the flexible tariff clause. The Democrats were non-plused at the announcement, since Senator Harrison (D) of Mississippi charged Mr. Hoover with arriving for great power in order to wield a club at election time.

The latest version of the flexible clause would give the president power to approve, veto or ignore recommendations of the commission.

The new flexible provision will be considered by the senate Monday. Administration leaders predicted it would be approved.

Its approval will mark but half the tariff war in the senate. The conferees divided the reform into two sections. The first section must be acted on later. This will develop parliamentary objections to the rates placed by the conferees on cheese, cherries, rayon and watches. With Vice President Curtis ready to uphold the points of order, administration leaders were considering whether to try to overrule him. It will require a majority vote on each item to set aside the vice president's ruling.

Administration spokesmen predicted considerable debate in the house but said in the end the bill would be enacted private forecasts varying from June 6 to June 26.

They were enroute to Washington for a Memorial Day outing. Radcliffe, who was driving the car, told state police he had become drowsy at the wheel.

POLICE PROBING DEATH MYSTERY

CLEVELAND, May 30.—Police here today were searching for a young man who helped a dying man into a Charity Hospital last night and disappeared a few minutes later.

The dead man, about 65 years old had not been identified today. He died of a fractured skull a few minutes after the young man had crashed him to the hospital.

Physicians were unable to determine whether the man had been struck by an automobile or whether he had been struck over the head during a holdup or fight.

A CHRISTIAN VIEW OF RACE RELATIONS

Professor E. A. Steiner in "Against the Current," sums up the Christian view of race relations as follows:

1. Racial characteristics are largely determined by environment.
2. Race prejudice is an artificial product of the mind, induced by various influences.
3. In the highest and lowest spheres of thought, and activity, all races are alike.
4. Every human being, no matter what his color, race, faith or class, has the right to earn the respect of his neighbor and his community by virtue of what he himself is.
5. The brotherhood of man will become an established fact as soon as each man determines to live like a brother to his fellows.
6. Christianity has in its spirit the solution of race and class problems, but in its practice it is lamentably far from solving them.
7. He who wishes to enter into fellowship with the race or nation with which he lives, must free himself from all isolating practices.
8. Entrance into such a human relationship has to be bought with a price, and that price is worth paying, for there is scarcely any loftier experience than that of being one with mankind.

RELIGION EFFECTIVE BY CO-OPERATION

Why was the Church founded at Pentecost? To keep Peter from denying the Lord again? No—rather that all Christians working together might do a greater work. According to the Bible, God's plan is that Christ should save the world through the church—his bride and the mother of his children. It is written, "The Lord added to the church those who were saved."

It is essential that all should co-operate with the church in every way which will enthroned Christ everywhere. He who absents himself from the church is disloyal to the Saviour. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

KENNEDY'S

About midnight, Jesus with his disciples went from the upper chamber in Jerusalem, where the Lord's supper was instituted, into the garden of Gethsemane where was fought the real battle of the cross. Jesus would win the battle by gathering strength in secret prayer.

V. 31—"Then saith Jesus unto them, all ye shall be offended in me this night; for it is written, I will smite the shepherd and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad." Jesus quoted the prophecy to indicate what was coming; one common trial would overtake both shepherd and sheep, Master and disciples. But beyond the gloom Jesus saw the greatest victory ever achieved—the victory of his resurrection. "After I am raised up, I will go before you into Galilee."

V. 33—"But Peter answered and said unto him, If all shall be offended in thee, I will never be offended." Peter was too self-confident; he did not know his human weakness.

V. 34—"Jesus said unto him, verily I say unto thee, that this night before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice." Jesus knows our human frailties.

V. 35—"Peter saith unto him, even if I must die with thee, yet will I not deny thee. Likewise said also all the disciples." There is no exception to human frailties; all depend too much upon their own strength.

V. 36—"Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto his disciples, sit ye here, while I go yonder and pray." Prayer was his preparation for his passion. Prayer is the highest preparation for every duty and burden; it quiets the soul and clears its vision so that it can see the path of truth and duty.

V. 38—"Then saith he unto them, my soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death, abide ye here, and watch with me." What he endured we can never know; but we know that from his cross there flows a power of cleansing and renewal, a strength and hope which proved themselves the salvation of men.

V. 39—"And he went forward a little, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; nevertheless not as I will but as Thou wilt." We must needs go to the most sacred places of our life alone. The humanity of the Son of God is here laid bare; there was a human shrinking which is one of the safeguards of our life: the check to forbidden petitions is "Not my will but thine be done."

V. 40—"And he cometh to his disciples and findeth them sleeping and saith unto Peter, what, could ye not watch with me one hour?" There was only one thing the disciples could not do and that was to go with him in fullest sympathy—the thing he now craved.

V. 41—"Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation; the spirit indeed is willing but the flesh is weak." The mind and heart are ready and disposed to bear coming trials, but the flesh, the natural feelings through the fear of danger is weak and will likely be the cause of failure. The way of prevention is by watching and praying.

Vs. 42, 44—"Again a second time, he went away and prayed saying, My Father, if this cannot pass away except I drink it, thy will be done. And he came again and found them sleeping, for their eyes were heavy. And he left them again, and went away and prayed the third time saying again the same words." Jesus prayed often and long; he felt the need of prayer. America is losing her prayer life and no wonder there is a loss of religious power.

Vs. 45, 46—"Then cometh he to the disciples and saith unto them, Sleep on now and take your rest." If he failed to have their wakeful sympathy, he now gave them his sympathy, knowing how weary and tired they were, but it is only for a few moments for again he said, "Arise let us be going; behold he is at hand that betrayeth me."

What are the different means of church publicity?

The different ways and means of church publicity are the church press, the secular press, weekly calendars, a monthly local church paper, direct mail, every member canvass, billboards, bulletin boards, paid advertising, hotels and clubs.

How effect a practical publicity church organization?

Public sentiment needs to be created in the church in the interests of church publicity that will command men and money to properly back up a worthwhile church publicity program.

A committee of carefully selected men with the pastor as chairman, should make a study of the methods used in other churches, securing sample copies for examination. Original ideas may be presented for due consideration.

A definite agreement needs to be reached as to the means of publicity for a definite period, responsibilities being properly assigned.

1. What is bravery?

2. Of what use are friends?

3. Of what value was the prayer of Christ?

4. Why were the disciples so sleepy? Why are disciples so sleepy today?

5. What part has suffering played in human progress?

6. How may we win our victories before we come to them?

7. What would it have meant to

Clericus says, "Faith asserts the sovereignty of God and then commits all things into his hands as our Father. Yet the power of God is not an unbridled and arbitrary caprice, but is controlled by his truth and goodness and love; so our prayers must be restricted by 'If it is possible.'"

Lesson Prayer. "We thank thee, O Christ, for not only the lessons in prayer and victory in conflict but for thy redeeming love in Gethsemane; help us to pass through our trials and sorrows and be a conqueror with Thee."

THE MOST IMPORTANT ACHIEVEMENT

In many homes the less important achievement is presented consciously or unconsciously by the young members in such statements as, "I'll show the folks what is in me if I ever get a chance." "I'll save my money carefully, invest it conservatively, and demonstrate to the satisfaction of everybody, myself included, that I am an unusually worthy man. When I am earning lots of money, folks will have to respect me."

True financial achievement as a goal of life is not unimportant, but true worth and financial worth are not the same, else there would be no chance for one who is handicapped by ill health or poverty.

That which differentiates man from other creatures is an inner self that has character value, the soul or spirit of man that thinks, wills, feels, loves, the seat of joy and happiness. If that inner self is not properly cared for and directed, life sinks to a lower plane, but when properly cared for and directed, life rises and takes on character and power that influences and lifts the better self of others; to do this a greater achievement than the amassing of wealth.—D. Carl Yoder.

Dr. Charles A. Brooks, for the past twenty-five years pastor of the Englewood Baptist Church, Chicago, has resigned to become executive secretary of the American Baptist Home Missionary Society.

Recent statistics show that Catholic hospitals in the United States carry three-fourth of the burden of hospital work under sectarian auspices. Only two states in the Union are without Catholic hospitals.

Dr. J. L. Clifton, state education director, delivered the principal address Thursday night to twenty graduates of Jamestown High School at the golden anniversary commencement exercises held in the Jamestown Opera House.

Diplomas were presented by F. L. Nelson, president of the board of education and R. E. Correll, superintendent, announced special awards which included scholarship to Denison University for Miss Lela Thuma, class valedictorian and a scholarship to Wilmington College for Ralph K. Moorman. These students, with Miss Frances Mildred Patton, were honor students of the class.

"You are entitled to good health, clean bodies, happiness, freedom of thought and to the chance to do something worth while," said Dr. Clifton explaining the strides made by education, although it is practically new, illustrating with experiences drawn from his own life, the speaker pointed out the value of being equipped to make your own decisions in life and of learning "how to live."

Ralph K. Moorman gave the salutatory address for the class, Mrs. Alona Baldwin Arment, who was married during her senior school year, read the class will, Miss Louisa J. Sharp read the class prophecy, Willard Doster was the class "grumbler," Henry Jones, Jr., gave the class history, Miss Betty Lee Moorman presented flowers to teachers and to the president of the board and Miss Lela Thuma gave the valedictory.

Particular interest attached to the exercises because the class was the fiftieth to be graduated by Jamestown High School. An effort by Superintendent Aultman to discover members of the first graduating class in the audience, failed.

The 1930 graduates were: Louisa Jane Sharp, Frances Mildred Patton, Henry Jones, Jr., Willard Doster, Ralph K. Moorman, Lela M. Thuma, Alona Baldwin Arment, Marjorie Toland, Betty Lee Moorman, Dorothy Pauline Hollingsworth, Della Mae Roberts, Howard T. Freed, John Dwight Taylor, Leo Marvel Coe, Helen Elizabeth Wright, Charles Robert James, William Carl Sessler, Joseph Carl Nelson, Mary Louise Cousins and Harriet Reeder.

Blow, Bugles, Blow

by John S. McGroarty

BLOW, bugles, blow, soft and sweet and low,
Sing a good-night for them who bravely faced the foe;
Sing a song of true to pain,
Where they sleep nor wake again,
'Neath the sunshine or the rain—
Blow, bugles, blow

Wave, banners, wave, above each hero's grave,
Fold them, O thou stainless flag that they died to save,
All thy stars with glory bright,
Bore them on through Treason's night,
Through the darkness to the light—
Wave, banners, wave.

Fall, blossoms, fall, over one and all,
They who heard their country's cry and answered to the call;
'Mid the shock of shot and shell,
Where they bled and where they fell,
They who fought so long and well—
Fall, blossoms, fall.

Sigh, breezes, sigh, so gently wandering by,
Bend above them tenderly, blue of summer sky
All their weary marches done,
All their battles fought and won,
Friend and lover, sire and son—
Sigh, breezes, sigh.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE ETERNAL THINGS—For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.—2 Cor. 4:17, 18.

THE AMERICA'S CUP

Sir Thomas Lipton, at the age of 80, will make his fifth attempt to "lift" the America's cup this fall. The Shamrock V, which he will bring over for that purpose, was recently launched and is reported to be behaving promisingly in the trials off Southend. The defender will be picked next month from four new and two old contenders for the honor of keeping the most famous yachting trophy in the world where it has rested for the last 79 years.

The "cup," which ever since has borne the name of its first winner, was put up in 1851 by the Royal Yacht squadron at Cowes for a race around the Isle of Wight, with no time allowance and open to all yachts. The New York Yacht club sent over the schooner yacht America, which outlasted 14 competitors and brought home the trophy. Since then 13 attempts have been made by British sportsmen to regain it. Sir Thomas Lipton has made the last four bids for it, with Shamrock I, II, III and IV in 1899, 1901, 1903 and 1920. This constitutes a record in itself. The untiring pursuit of a yachting trophy for more than thirty years, at vast expense and against the discouragement of repeated defeats, will stand to the credit of the genial Irish tea merchant, against all challengers.

The America's cup races have been the means of bringing about a camaraderie among American and British yachtsmen. Seldom have they led to any unpleasantness. The most serious disagreement arose over the race of 1895, when Lord Dunraven, who had brought over the unsuccessful Valkyrie III, was disgruntled with the outcome and made certain remarks about American sportsmanship that threatened for the moment to make these Anglo-American contests a thing of the past. Sir Thomas Lipton stepped into the breach four years later and healed it. While he has failed four times to "lift" the cup, Sir Thomas always has been prompt to admit that the best boat won. This fine sportsmanship has endeared him to the American yachting fraternity. When he arrives for his fifth attempt, Sir Thomas will find in this country only one hope greater than that he may achieve his ambition—and that is that the trophy he seeks will continue to remain in the land whose name it has borne ever since he left the cradle.

PENNSYLVANIA'S ELECTION

The failure of Senator Joseph R. Grundy to make the grade in the Pennsylvania senatorial primary fight is not a matter for wonderment. Secretary Davis of the labor department, who won out handily over the senator, enjoyed the support of the Vore organization in Philadelphia, quite a considerable asset, and he had the prestige of a cabinet position retained under three successive presidents and devoted to the furtherance of the cause of union labor to help him, which naturally means a good deal in a state with a big organized labor vote. However, there seems to be no reason why the people of Pennsylvania need feel regret over the prospect of a change in their representation in the national senate. Mr. Davis is a person of wide experience and undoubted ability, who ought to be fully adequate to look after the interests of his home state under any circumstances. If he goes into the senate, he will be considerably above the average of the present membership.

It is a mistake to talk about "fear of flying." It isn't flying that people are afraid of, but the possibility that flying may come to an uncomfortably abrupt end.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

OPPOSITION TO FREEDOM OF PHILIPPINES NOW VOICED

By PATRICK J. HURLEY

Secretary of War

(Patrick Jay Hurley was born at Choctaw Nation, Indian territory (now Oklahoma), January 3, 1883. He is a graduate of Indian university and the National University Law school. Admitted to the bar in 1908 he began practicing law at Tulsa, Okla. From 1912 to 1917 he was national attorney for Choctaw Nation. He has been president of a bank in Tulsa and owner of several business buildings there and of one in Washington. He was appointed assistant secretary of war in 1929 and was made secretary upon the death of James Good. During the World War he was a major and lieutenant colonel, rising through the ranks of the national guard, and saw active service in France. In 1924 he was delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention and chairman of the state convention in 1924. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.)

Complete and immediate independence for the Philippine Islands would be disastrous alike to the ultimate interests of both the Filipino and American people.

No diminution of American control in the islands, below that which may properly be effected under the present organic act, should be brought about while the responsibility incident to American sovereignty in the Philippines continues. It would be inexpedient and hazardous to attempt to anticipate future developments by fixing any future date for ultimate independence.

In my belief no commitment, legal or moral, exists as regards immediate independence or independence within any specific period of years.

There are four principal courses of procedure before the United States government, namely:

1. To continue in effect the present organic act without substantial modification of its basic provisions.
2. To enact new legislation granting increased autonomy to the government of the Philippines.
3. To grant immediate and complete independence. The weight of evidence appears to be clearly against the wisdom and justice of this course.
4. To announce that independence will be granted at the expiration of an indicated term of years. This proposal appears to be basically unsound.

Of the four general courses heretofore outlined the first one stated is believed to be that one best suited to both fulfill American obligations in the Philippine Islands and to advance the welfare of the Philippine people. It is further believed that the beneficial results incident to the adoption of that course will be decidedly increased if advantage be taken of the present opportunity to announce certain concrete objectives which should be substantially achieved by the Philippine people before further detailed consideration shall be given to proposal for granting them complete independence.

How can I accustom myself to swimming under water?

Place an object, such as a pebble on the bottom of the pool, and swim down to it. Keep moving the object into deeper water. Be sure to keep your eyes open. These instructions are included in an excellent instruction pamphlet, Floyd Zimmerman's "Swimming," written to teach the beginner all he needs to know to become an accomplished swimmer. You may obtain "Swimming" by sending 10 cents in coin and a large stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Central Press Washington Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C.

COAL BY THE CARLOAD

About how many tons of coal are there in a carload?

The commerce department informs us that the average number of short tons in a carload of anthracite coal is 49.17 and of bituminous 52.87.

KILLING ANTS

What is a simple method for destroying lawn ants?

Where there are only a few nests, drenching them with boiling water or injecting a small quantity of kerosene or coal oil will be effective. If there are large colonies of ants, two or three ounces of disulphid of carbon injected into the holes will be very efficient in removing them. When disulphid of carbon is used a wet blanket should be thrown over the holes to keep the fumes from coming out.

THEFT EITHER WAY

How does grand larceny differ from robbery?

Grand larceny is simply theft of property above a fixed amount, generally $25 to $50, and is accomplished without the force or fear which constitutes the crime of robbery.

COLONIAL INDEPENDENCE

Where was the earliest attempt made by the colonies to make a declaration of independence?

The earliest known attempt in the American colonies at a declaration of independence was at a town meeting at Mendon, Mass., in 1773.

NINETEENTH AMENDMENT

What was the Nineteenth amendment to the constitution?

The Nineteenth amendment gave nation-wide suffrage to women, by providing that the right to vote should not be denied to citizens of the United States on account of sex. It went into effect on Aug. 26, 1920.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK—An incident in "The Green Pastures," the Pulitzer prize play that has been the sensation of the theatrical year, is the amusing scene where the Lord commands Noah to build the ark.

Noah says it's going to be kind of damp and wants to know if he hadn't better take a little liquor along. The Lord says he don't mind a man drinking a little liquor when it is necessary, and tells Noah he can take along one keg of liquor. Then Noah wants to take two kegs and put one on each side to balance the ark. The Lord tells him to take one and put it in the middle.

It will be sometime before "The Green Pastures" goes on the road, "here is only one God and one keg, and New York needs them both."

SLANGUAGE

Seven hundred teachers recently heard Dr. John L. Tildesley, Manhattan district superintendent, say that knowing how to get an idea across was more important than being grammatical or correct in pronunciation. This reminds me of "Bill" Corum's story of two Eastsiders standing at the battery watching the sea gulls flying about. "They're pretty birds, ain't they?" said one. "Yes, they're gulls," replied the other.

"Gulls or boys, they're pretty birds," said the first.

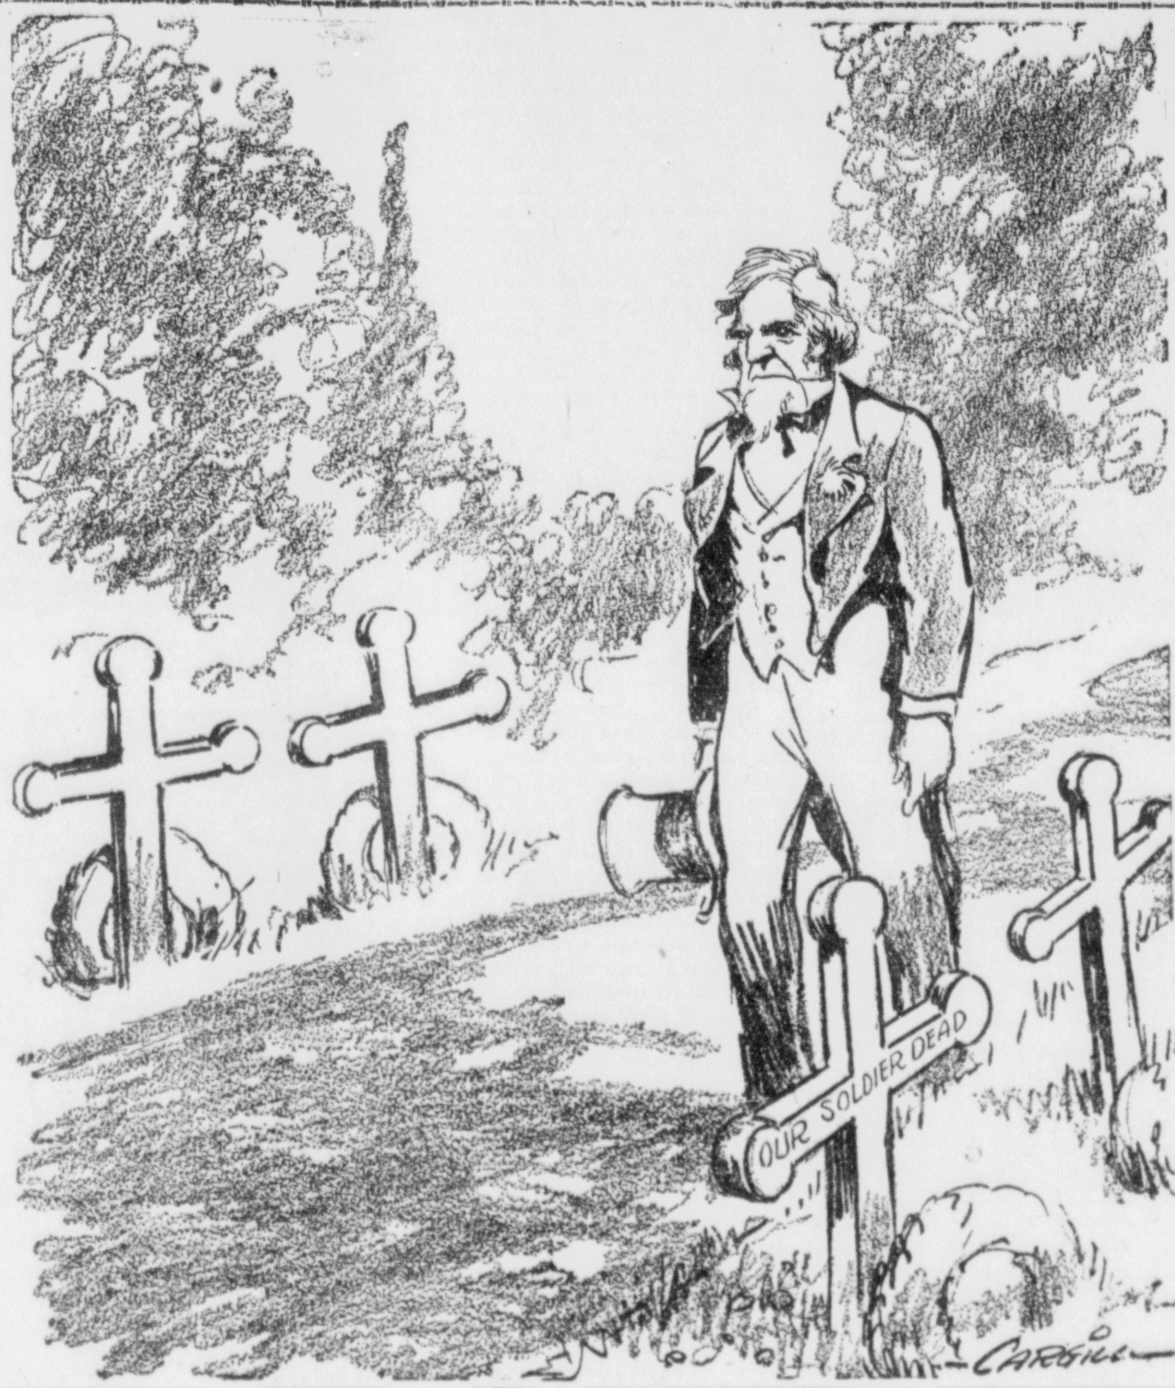

Dr. Tildesley don't object to "birds" or "birds," and "thoid for 'third.' If the children only express their own ideas rather than those of someone else."

RENT PARTIES

Up in Harlem they are giving rent parties. When a negro can't pay his rent all of his friends are invited to his apartment. Cheap whiskey, food and music are provided and the guests are supposed to leave a little something to help pay the landlord.

Rent parties are very lively affairs, but some of the colored gentry can't be satisfied—they pull a rent party every night or two, and the police do most of the collecting.

NEW JERSEY VIES WITH ILLINOIS FOR FOCUS OF NATION'S SPOTLIGHT IN 1930 CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — Representative John N. Garner's scheme to give the south eight new members of the U. S. senate, by carving up Texas, whence he comes to Washington, into five states, instead of only one, as at present, is an original idea—no one disputes that.

The only criticism of it which one hears, from congress constitutional authorities, is that it would be almost impossible to make it work—though Garner seems to think it would be as simple as drinking a glass of water.

According to paragraph 1, section 3, article 4 of the U. S. constitution: "New states may be admitted by the congress into the union; but no new states shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state, nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the legislature of the states concerned. AS WELL AS OF THE CONGRESS."

Now, it is likely (ask the critics) that a predominantly northern congress ever will sanction any southern state's subdivision of itself, so as to shift control of the senate to the southern side of the Mason-Dixon line? It is imaginable that even a Democratic congress would do it—considering the various bickerings which occasionally occur between the northern and southern wings of the Democratic party.

Querying thus, the critics smile skeptically. Yes, but (rejoins Representative Garner) Texas is different from other states in that, upon its admission into the union, it was given its choice of entering as one state or five states or any intermediate number of states; and while it is true that it elected to enter as only one, it is not yet too late for it to change its mind and multiply itself.

It is indeed (insist the legalistic critics of the Garnerian theory) too late for the Lone Star commonwealth to adopt any such change of program; once in, it immediately became subject to the constitutional prohibition of the formation of a new state within the jurisdiction of one already established, without the consent of congress.

I beg (says Representative Garner) to call your attention to the terms of the congressional joint resolution of 1845 for Texas' annexation, which states: "New states of convenient size, not exceeding four in number in addition to said state of Texas, and having sufficient population, may hereafter, by consent of said state, be formed out of the territory thereof, which shall be entitled to admission under the provisions of the federal constitution."

It does (admit the legalists) sound convincing, but surely, Friend Garner, you must realize that that promise was unconstitutional. A congressional resolution cannot override the fundamental law of the land. The fact that this one happens never to have been tested heretofore has nothing to do with the matter. One, two, three or four little sub-Texas' can get into the union as new states with congress' approval; not otherwise. And we doubt like the dickens if they can get it.

If this reasoning is correct (and the constitutionalists hand it out, for public consumption, with an air of the most sublime confidence) it punctures a mighty, mighty idea. Some folks surmise that Representative Garner thought up his plan because he himself wants a senatorial toga. This seems doubtful. As minority leader of the house of representatives, he is as big a man as he would be as a minority senator. If the Democrats ever get control of the representatives' chamber (and they are predicting they will control it in the next congress) he will be speaker—which, according to Nick Longworth, who holds it now, is a more important job than the vice president's.

Others hint that the Texan is trying to perpetuate the dry's senate majority.

This sounds doubtful also. Representative Garner's state is dry, as everyone knows; so he cannot very well be wet—but he never pretended to be in personal sympathy with the eighteenth amendment or Volsteadism.

As an enthusiastic southerner—except for the extreme southerly tip of Florida (Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen's bailiwick) Garner represents the most southerly district in the country; it extends clear down to Brownsville, at the mouth of the Rio Grande—

As the most southern congressman in Washington (barring the geographical accident of Miami's Key West's ultra-tropical latitude), a likelier explanation is that Representative Garner wants more southern senators simply on general principles.

MENU HINT

Baked Ham Shirred Eggs Pineapple-Banana Salad

Ice Cold Rice Pudding with Raisins Cream Iced Tea

This is a luncheon or dinner menu for a hot day. You can serve the eggs from the ramekins or turn them out and arrange them around the ham and potatoes.

Today's Recipes

Baked Ham—One slice ham one and one-half inches thick, four tablespoons flour, one-half cup vinegar, one-half cup water, one-fourth teaspoon powdered cloves, eight sweet potatoes. Sprinkle the ham with the flour and fit into a baking pan. Add the vinegar, water and cloves. Cover and bake for one and one-half hours in a moderate oven. Add the potatoes and bake for 45 minutes. Remove the potatoes and cook for 10 minutes directly under a fire. When the potatoes have browned on all sides arrange around the ham, which has been placed on a serving platter. Garnish with parsley and serve at once.

Shirred Eggs—Six eggs, three-fourths cup chopped spinach, three tablespoons grated cheese, three tablespoons bread crumbs, salt, paprika. Put spinach in baking dish or individual ramekins, season and put in eggs. Season, cover with cheese and crumbs and add sufficient milk to moisten slightly. Bake in moderate oven until egg is set.

Suggestions Cotton Gloves If you like to wear rubber gloves for housework but your hands perspire too freely, try putting on a pair of cotton gloves first. They will absorb the moisture and help to protect your hands. They are easy to wash, too. The dry skin, of course, does not need this extra layer. A well-known skin specialist gives this advice to his women patients and it is worth passing on.

Bananas a Natural Food No longer are bananas regarded as the harmful, hard to digest fruit they were once called. Eaten when sufficiently ripened, or prepared in one of many delicious new ways, this fruit has been given its rightful place among the most nourishing, energy, carbohydrate foods.

Refreshing Drink Slake your thirst this summer with something that's good for you as well as good. Shake together in a glass jar or shaker one-half cup of chocolate syrup, one cup of evaporated milk or fresh cream, one cup of pineapple syrup, one cup of water and plenty of cracked ice. This will fill four large glasses, and makes a most refreshing drink.

Plum Cookies, Dough—One cup thick sour cream, one cup sugar one well-beaten egg, four cups pastry flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla.

Diet and Health

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Acrobatic Dancing

Dear Doctor: I am 16 years old, 5 ft. 1 in. tall and weighed 88 pounds when last weighed. I know I am terribly underweight, but am wiry and perfectly healthy, otherwise. This is my question: Do you think it would harm me to take acrobatic dancing lessons? I do so want to take them, but my Dad thinks they may harm me. I read an article of yours sometime ago, concerning the benefits of acrobatic dancing, and I mean to put it out to use as a forceful argument for my lessons, but I forgot to do so. "ANXIOUS"

There is no doubt that ballet and acrobatic dancing are super-fine modes of exercise. Anxious, and I think all children should be taught them in some form. They are especially good to strengthen the feet and legs.

Of course, you are considerably underweight, and if you take up this mode of exercise, it would mean you would have to add much more to your diet; but perhaps the exercise would stimulate the appetite so you would want to. I'll repeat the resume of what Dr. Philip Levin, an orthopedic surgeon, says of this form of exercise. Of course, he writes from the standpoint of health and the correction of deformities. While the doctor was writing for girls, it doesn't mean that acrobatic dancing isn't equally as good for boys and men and women—naturally, in all cases, if there is no contra-indication to exercise. Here is what he says:

"Through ballet dancing the girl may develop and improve in concentration, poise, sense of balance, quickness and accuracy of thinking, co-ordination of the mind, muscle and body, and sense of rhythm both of music and movement. Added to these mental health benefits is the important factor of enjoyment."

"Physical health benefits are found in improved circulation and digestion and in development of muscle of both the heart and the skeleton, ligament, tendon and bony skeleton."

"Improvement in body symmetry, carriage, posture and physical attitude is great. . . . Children who are overweight are benefited by the physical activity of ballet dancing, for it has a tendency to prevent the deposition of fat. The thin child is improved by the general stimulation of bodily function, especially circulatory, muscular and digestive functions."

"Ballet dancing is the foundation of all branches of dancing. Through ballet work the muscles may be properly developed and the balance and poise necessary in any kind of dancing is obtained. . . ."

"Acrobatics may be a valuable auxiliary to ballet dancing. It must be taught by a specially trained instructor, who must give every child individual attention in order to prevent injury. Backbending stunts must not be indulged in too strenuously or too constantly. In children with thyroid gland disturbance, acrobatics and sometimes ballet dancing are to be avoided."

We have a pamphlet which gives instructions on how to gain and lose weight. Anxious, which you should have. See column rules for obtaining it.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following small charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Are women the greatest sufferers from the ills of matrimony, or are they merely the greatest complainers? I think I hear a great male chorus agreeing with the latter statement.

Maybe the chorus is right, too, and men "suffer in silence," or "step out" when their marital woes grow too acute, while women pour out their woes to this or similar columns—or to their friends.

It is easy to sit down and write a letter complaining bitterly of one's mate's faults. It is easy to whine about one's lot and pity one's self heartily. But that sort of thing never gets you anywhere. I'm talking now from experience, so don't think I'm a person who has never had any troubles and so can sit serenely and advise others. I have found that the same energy which may be spent feeling sorry for one's self may also be expended in finding ways out of dilemmas.

On the other hand, when one is desperate and can't think which way to turn, it is very wise to sit down and write to or consult some one who may be able to give even a hint of a solution to the problem, and that is what I am for, and if I can help you, even a little, I am always only too glad to do so.

BEAUTIFUL LAQUITTA: If you are so very unhappy with your husband, support yourself and NO LONGER LOVE HIM. Laquitta, divorce him and be free, or not.

WONDERING SUWANEE: Unless you can forgive her and like her in your heart, dear, there is little use making up with her outwardly. That would not be Christian, would it? If you still have all the things you mention against her, you couldn't be the kind of a friend she needs, could you? And if you can absolutely forgive her and make her your friend again, really turn over a new leaf, as you say, it would be nice to do it by sending her an invitation to your confirmation. Of course I can't tell whether she and her family will make up with you now or not.

JOY GIRL: Isn't it possible that if your husband is laid off he will be able to get other work? Or, if he should be laid off and no work available, would it be possible for you to get work where he is—in the town where you live? I mean? That would be better than being separated from him so long. If neither of these things is possible, why, it might be wise to accept this job while you have the chance, and if he is laid off, maybe he could come and be with you until work picks up again.

AMERICA'S MOST FAMOUS BEAUTY? "DEAR MISS GLAD: Although my figure is rather nicely proportioned, my face is extremely thin and scrawny. Is there any way of fattening the face without influencing the rest of the body? And how should one apply rouge on a thin face?"

"THERESA" Cocoa butter, a product of the oil of the theobroma tree, is excellent for use as a fattening agent. Warm the cocoa butter and rub it well into the skin. This will help to nourish and fatten the tissues and round out the facial contours. On a thin face rouge should be applied more heavily on the outside of the cheeks. This gives the illusion that the centers of the cheeks are farther apart, and thus adds breadth to the face.

"DEAR MISS GLAD: I thought that it might interest you to know that, for the past two weeks I have faithfully followed the reducing course included in your booklet on 'The New Figure,' and have already lost 15 pounds. However, the purpose of my letter is to inquire as to the cause of and the remedy for ingrown toe nails. Can you help me?"

"JANIE DOE." The majority of foot troubles are caused by ill-fitting shoes. And ingrown toenails are included in this category. Shoes should allow the foot to function normally; long enough and wide enough, roomy around the toes, and fitting snugly around the heel and over the instep. Ingrown toenails are best treated by cutting the nails into a V shape, the center of the V pointing toward the root of the nail. While training the toenail to grow narrower at the top, keep a little lamb's wool tucked around the sensitive edge of the nail, where it had grown into the flesh. However, if there is any sign of infection, a chiropodist should at once be consulted.

"Dear Miss Glad: I would appreciate it if you would tell me whether or not it is injurious to the hair to curl it. I curl the ends of my hair with a curling iron every day. Thank you.

ESTHER CORLL." The daily use of a hot curling iron tends to remove the natural oil from the parts of the hair on which the iron is employed. As there is a smaller percentage of natural oil on the ends of the hair than there is on the hair closer to the scalp, such treatment is apt to result in dry, brittle, split-ends. Why not try using the old-fashioned nod curlers to turn up the ends of your hair? This method has the added advantage of eventually training the ends of the hair to curl up without any difficulty, or superficial treatment. A bit of curling fluid can be employed to prolong the effects of the curling. My booklet on Beauty Culture contains the formula for an excellent curling fluid that can easily be manufactured at home.

EDITORS' NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlet on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ten cents in coin, for each, to cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED

If the wholesale swapping of Cincinnati baseball players to New York continues much longer at the current rate of exchange, it may presently become difficult to decide which team to root for—the Reds or the Giants.

The personnel of the Red team is gradually being transferred to the Giant roster and vice versa and for the life of us we find it hard to see how the Reds are being benefited by the trading, excepting that the Cincinnati management is probably better off financially by some thousands of dollars.

On the heels of the unexpected exchange of Hughie Crtz for Larry Benton came the equally sensational announcement of the trade of Pete Donohue and Ethan Allen to New York for Pat Crawford who is at least a versatile player. The Giants are said to have balanced the latest transaction with a cash payment of between $25,000 and $50,000.

Rumors are now current that the Reds are in the market for still more talent and are willing to part with George Kelly, Curt Walker, Eppa Rixey and Johnny Gooch providing they can get value received. If overtures are still being made with New York with these four players involved in the transaction, the time may not be far distant when Cincinnati will have all of the New York players and all the Giants will wear Red uniforms. In that event the Reds would be better off because the present New York club is considerably stronger than Howley's herd.

Analyzing the recent trades it would seem that New York has let go of a losing pitcher and a utility infielder who has a reputation as a hard left-handed hitter but who has never been able to land a regular berth with the McGraw men. In return Muggsy has obtained the best defensive second baseman in either league, a speedy young outfielder and a 300 hitter in Allen and a pitcher in Donohue who could not win for the Reds but who may have better success with the Giants.

Pat Crawford, the latest acquisition of the Reds, is no youngster. He is 28. He is, however, a handy utility man to have around, and is a long distance slugger, and Cincinnati is woefully lacking in hitters in that category.

Cincinnati's outfield will not be weakened much by the trade of Allen even though Allen is a great player, Howley claims he has natural ability but is not sufficiently aggressive. Whether this is true is a side issue. What we mean to convey is that the Reds are overburdened with good outfielders, including Walker, Bob Meusel, Marty Callaghan, Hellman and Swanson. All this bologna regarding the possible advantages and disadvantages of the recent trades to the Reds narrows down to one conclusion. Briefly it is this: The Reds were apparently getting nowhere in particular with the players they had and so they cannot be much worse off now than they were. That is probably how Howley feels about the situation if he is of a philosophical nature.

HARVEY REESE WILL PITCH FOR DAYTON AGAINST XENIANS

Harvey Reese, former pitcher for Newark and Rochester in the International League and more recently on the hurling staff of Canton in the Central League, is expected to be on the mound for the Dayton Grismers Tuesday, which will oppose the Xenia Merchants here Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

The Dayton nine recently played the A. B. C. team of Indianapolis, member of the National Colored Professional League, losing 2 to 0. Reese held the colored boys to four hits but his own team obtained only two blows. Both teams played errorless ball.

The Merchants have won three games in a row and with Dick Wells serving them up a tight pitcher's battle may be expected Sunday.

The Grismer team will line up with Krimm behind the plate, E. Eckert on first base, A. Eckert at shortstop, B. Fisher at third base, Brown at second, Hoefler, Eickinger and L. Fisher in the outfield. Akers and Barnes are the reserve pitchers and Polatus is a utility outfielder.

RUTMAN DEFEATED IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Walter Rutman, Antioch College tennis star, was eliminated by Moskowitz, of the University of Cincinnati, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-0 in the first round of play Thursday for the singles title of the Ohio Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament, being staged under the auspices of Kenyon College at Gambier, O.

Rutman, one of the pre-tournament favorites, was formerly a member of India's Davis cup team. Max, of the University of Cincinnati, is the favorite to retain the singles title he won for the first time last year.

KI-RO VICTORY OVER COMPANY L TIES UP LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

A three-way tie exists for leadership of the American Softball League as a result of the 19 to 9 victory achieved by the Kiwanis-Rotary team over Company L Thursday night at Cox Athletic Field.

Winning its second straight game, the Ki-Ro nine now boasts a record of two victories against one defeat. The Xenia Country Club Caddies and Krippendorf-Dittman have similar records while the National Guard unit has lost three in a row.

In the game Thursday night, Ki-Ro spotted the soldier boys a two-run lead in the first inning but in the second scored eight runs to

Resinol Heals Stubborn Unightly Rash on Baby's Body

"At the age of 3 months there appeared on the buttocks and behind the ears of my baby a very irritating and unsightly looking rash. Many remedies were prescribed and all were used faithfully without obtaining any but temporary results. Harassed by the untold discomfort caused the baby as well as the increased unsightliness I began, on the recommendation of a friend, to use Resinol Ointment. Immediately marked improvements were noted, and now, at the age of 10 1/2 months, the child is without the slightest trace of his trouble." (Signed) Mrs. J. G. Reamer, Coshocton, O. Recovering from the sand trap seems to be the dread of all golfers. There has never been enough practice in that department to learn the shot. The professional golfer makes "sand trap practice" his business and, after learning the shot, goes for the pin with little fear in his heart, consequently a low score.

The above illustration shows the "clean pitch" from the trap as executed by Bobby Jones. It was due to this shot that he was able to turn in the lowest score ever made in a qualifying round during the British Open three years ago. His second shot was invariably trapped. His stance for this type of play is much the same as his putting stance as pictured in No. 2. Figure No. 1 shows the shot played only a wrist motion. Figure (A) shows the head and shoulders perfectly stationary, (B) demonstrates the break of the wrists, (C) the right knee slightly bent in and (D) the feet close together and well rounded. The finish of this shot is the same as the putting stance.

Do not try to hit the ball; use the wrists to place the shot.

Sport Riticism by BILL RITT

The trouble with pitching these days is too many pitchers, says Old Honus Wagner. What Old Honus probably meant was too many men who THINK they are pitchers.

Those 200 Washington applicants for world series tickets are probably spending their time now in looking up Philadelphia train schedules.

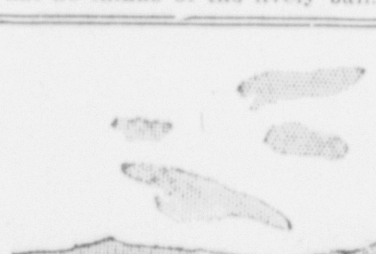

Pull and drag. Big Bill Tilden seems to have both. A few years ago they tried to pull him out of the Davis cup lineup and now they are trying to drag him into it.

Harvard and Princeton are talking about an armistice and resuming their football relations, but Moron Mike, the ginger ale accessory peddler, thinks they just want to get close enough together to do some really good infighting.

The Army-Navy split also worries Mike. He figures that as long as they don't play nobody can get it. The split, of course, you silly!

CEDARVILLE BEATS WILBERFORCE NINE IN THURSDAY GAME

Rallying in the eighth inning to score four runs, Cedarville College pounded out a 9 to 7 victory over Wilberforce University in a baseball game played on the Wilberforce diamond Thursday afternoon.

The Yellow-Jackets scored three runs in the fourth, breaking a scoreless deadlock which had existed until that time. Wilberforce came back with two and assumed a 7 to 5 advantage at the close of the seventh round.

A. Turner pitched for Cedarville and was opposed on the mound by Johnson. The Borstmen cracked out seventeen hits, Armstrong showing the way with four bingles. Wilberforce got eleven blows. Cedarville also played a superior defensive game.

Wilberforce threatened in the ninth but a double play initiated by Turner cut the rally short and Walter Boyer ended the game by making a fine running catch in center field.

Cedarville has won four games and lost three in the C. A. W. W. League this season. A return game with Wilberforce will be played at Cedarville June 4 as a feature of annual "Cedar Day" exercises on the college campus.

The Borstmen will play four more games before the schedule ends. Besides the Wilberforce contest, the Yellow-Jackets will meet Antioch College twice, the first game at Yellow Springs May 31 and a return engagement at Cedarville June 6. Another game with Wilmington College is also being arranged. Lineups and summary:

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO DESERVED TO WIN

READ THIS FIRST:

Clara Dee Forester is the motherless, only daughter of a millionaire. Petted, pampered and living a life of idle extravagance. Disgusted with the wealthy young set, her father left her one dollar in his will, in the hope that some quality in her would respond to the situation and make her a successful woman. Clara Dee goes to Mother Flynn's boarding house to live. She looks for a position.

A well-known attorney writes Clara Dee offering his services if she wants to break her father's will.

This she refuses to do. She gets a job in a grocery store. At Mrs. Flynn's Clara Dee meets Winfield Baxter, a young chemist. Clara Dee has a date with Baxter.

She loses her position at the grocery store when vacations are over.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

In spite of her anxiety, she informed no one of her latest disappointment. She nursed a faint hope that in some miraculous way, she would find a better position or Mr. Grady would decide to keep her on. But the week passed more swiftly than any of its predecessors and she received the last twelve dollars from Mr. Grady with a heavy pain dragging in her breast.

She went with Winfield Baxter to a movie that evening, but the picture only increased her resentment. The heroine was a very poor girl who advanced to position and wealth with a rapidity which her own recent experience had proved to be impossible. She did enjoy Winfield's company, however, and unhappy as she was, her spirits were soaring when he had said a lingering good-night at the new post of the stairs. The next day was a repetition of her pre-grocery experience, and by five o'clock she decided to have been better than the days at the Star grocery had grown to be. While, for her effort, she had received not even her two dollars per day. Again, she took Mrs. Flynn into her confidence—she would have discovered the situation by the next day, at latest, anyway.

"Share, and that's a shame," she declared. "But don't worry none. Mebbe something better'll turn up before long."

"At least I now have some experience to my credit," Clara Dee added hopefully. "That is more than I had when I came here. I also have enough to pay you for one more week after this."

"And you just be forgettin' that for awhile, and that's a shame," she declared. "But don't worry none. Mebbe something better'll turn up before long."

but she failed to understand, why, in all this vast city there was not work enough to pay one homeless girl the wherewithal for existence. Even the scores of idle girls whom she met in her journeys, she did not recognize as being so desperately in need as herself.

Then Estelle breezed in one evening on one of her frequent visits, wrapped in a flame colored robe which clashed hideously with her mass of marcelled hair.

"What's wrong, did they give you the air at the Star?" she inquired bluntly.

"Well—vacations are over and they had enough help without me," replied the girl curled up on the bed, catching up runners in her last pair of stockings.

Estelle's pale, brownish eyes narrowed significantly. "Didn't I tell you every time you drew a straight flush, someone would flash a royal one?"

"Oh, I shall find something else, soon," she answered, but there was no ring of assurance in her voice.

"Like clerkin' in the five and ten, maybe. Say, girlie, why don't you take a tip from a friend and get on velvet? I just came in to give you a bid to a party that Ivan is throwing tomorrow night and you've got as much sense as you look like you've got, you'll come with me. Will you?"

Clara Dee shook her head slowly, her attention riveted upon her darling.

"Don't be a little fool," admonished the Titian beauty. "I suppose you come from a burg where people think that art exists as an excuse for sin and evil and that a model sell herself with her time!"

"Oh! no indeed," Clara Dee hastened to reply. "It's only that I don't think I should care for that kind of work, even if I should qualify. I might not be at all satisfactory as a model."

"Well—at least it wouldn't do no harm to find out and you'd have a swell time, besides. Think it over and let me know tomorrow night at supper, will ya?"

Her argument had gathered momentum and she departed with Clara Dee's promise to think it over. Before retiring, she took the orchid chiffon frock from its protecting slip and held it up before her for inspection. The very sight of it brought a host of memories to her mind, weary by the trail of sordid events of the past months.

A great longing, a rush of homesickness filled her heart and her feet tingled at the thought of a jazz orchestra and men and women in evening clothes. She sought guidance from the face in the jeweled amber frame, but there was no response, even to her imagination. Again looking at the dress, her thoughts drifted to her old friends. Friends—she smiled scornfully. Regardless of her desperate situation, she knew that at this very moment they were scattered over the world or planning exciting trips to distant lands, rushing about the old world—viewing with varied degrees of interest and appreciation the Motherhorn, the Taj Mahal, the Campanile, Lake Geneva; or, with the Jaded Interiors of the habitué traveler who, long since, has lost his appetite for historic places—sojourn in Paris; shopping on the Rue Casiglione or the Rue de la Paix at Paquin's or Worth's, teazing at the Ritz on the ever-thrilling Place Vendôme, dancing at Acadia's or strolling in the Luxembourg—an endless round of gayeties. A year ago she had been one of them.

"I shall go," she said aloud, and began excitedly to make preparation. She set the silver slippers and stockings in readiness, manicured her nails until they glowed like slender pink buds with their tips of translucent white, shampooed the glossy black hair and crept into bed so weary that she decided to sleep all morning, to be fresh and rested for the important event.

Estelle was delighted with her decision and exclaimed in surprise when Clara Dee appeared in the orchid frock, half concealed and revealed by the cloth-of-silver cloak wrapped about her.

"You get to be more of a mystery every day. How you've stayed in every evening for weeks, with an outfit like that in hiding, is more than I comprehend." Scores of questions clamored for expression on her heavily rouged lips, but she possessed discretion enough to silence them.

"It's the only thing I have for evening wear, and now I'm rather glad I have it, though I hadn't planned to attend any parties," Clara Dee explained.

Estelle's opinion was repeated in the expression of Ivan Moreau's face, as he came forward with animated surprise and took both of Clara Dee's hands carelessly in his long, slender ones. He was tall and extremely thin, but handsome in a dark, brilliant way. His eyes, small and dark, seemed to pierce into her very soul and, thought Clara Dee, instantly detected every secret she had ever possessed. She drew her hands away, her eyes wide and pleading. He released her gently and laughed softly.

"Forgive me, if I seemed rude. An artist so seldom finds in the flesh what he has dreamed of abstractly during his whole career, that it would be impossible for him to exhibit no evidence of his joy when he does find it."

"If you are as successful an artist as you are a flatterer, it accounts for your popularity and success," she mocked him, brightly—she was trembling violently, within.

"But I am sincere, Miss Forester," his eyes penetrated to the depths of hers. "Come over and meet my friends, though I am loathe to share you with them for an entire evening."

Clara Dee was grateful that she recognized none of her old friends among them; the girls, for the most part, were models and their escorts were more or less distinguished members of the clique of the studios. They were old and young, handsome or oddly attractive. The girls represented various types of beauty, daintily gowned in bizarre creations, perfectly marcelled and made up to enhance their natural beauty which, carried to extremes by some, rather produced the opposite effect. Though they greeted her with a profuse show of graciousness, Clara Dee detected the suspicious and calculating glances directed at her, and in spite of her impeccable training, her recent isolation from life pleasure made her feel a little ill at ease.

The Theater

William Farnum, veteran of the stage and screen, who has just completed a feature role in Norma Talmadge's "Dubbary," wants to star the "last of the Farnums" either on stage or screen in "The Littlest Rebel" or some other story worthy of her debut.

You see the "last of the Farnums" is a five-year-old niece, Estelle, daughter of his brother, Dustin. Hill's father and mother, G. D. Farnum and Adele Lagros,

Now Rogers is reported to be interested in making "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" from Mark Twain's original story, into a talkie. If this department remembers correctly this piece was done for the silent screen several years ago with T. Roy Barnes in the lead, but columnists dispute this belief with the claim that Harry Myers made the picture. Barnes, long an obscure figure in the films, came into prominence again with a fat part in "Sally" which showed here.

BETTY COMPSON

Twenty Years '10- Ago -'30

Mr. George Little was among local people present at the auto races in Indianapolis and had the pleasure of seeing Barney Oldfield break the record for a mile on a circular course, piloting his car over the distance in 35.6 seconds.

"Why, with her magnificent record, has no one ever written a history of Greene County in the Civil War?" So asked former Governor James E. Campbell in his memorial address delivered at the opera house.

A local party which included Dr. Reed Madden, C. L. Jobs and R. S. Kingsbury, enjoyed an auto trip to the reservoir. The Springfield school board by unanimous vote has ruled that teachers in the public schools in that city shall not be permitted to use tobacco in any form whatever.

They are whispering in Hollywood now that Betty Compson, who was recently divorced from her director husband, James Cruze, and Hugh Trevor, are "that way" about each other, to borrow an expression from Walter Winchell. In getting her divorce, Betty, who has had sensational success since the talkies came in, declared her husband gave continual parties at their home, preventing her from obtaining any rest.

Phil McCullough, well-known character actor, is in Osteopathic Hospital recovering from six weeks illness of double pneumonia and two broken ankles.

Irene Rich owes much to Will Rogers, the gum-chewing comedian. When Irene came to the Pacific Coast from the Hawaiian Islands in 1918 she tried pictures and her first part was a bit with Mary Pickford in "Stella Maris."

It was Rogers, however, who gave her her big chance, giving her a starring part in 1920 in "Water, Water, Everywhere." He repeated for her when he again chose her as his leading lady in "They Had To See Paris" and then followed that success by using Miss Rich again in "So This Is London?"

SOLDIER'S RELIEF COMMISSION SEEKS $3,000 FROM COUNTY

An appropriation of $3,000, double the amount obtained heretofore for relief work, is being sought by the Soldiers' Relief Commission of Greene County, which has re-organized for the coming year by the re-election of Sheriff Ohmer Tate as chairman and Mrs. Anna Lindsey, colored, Xenia, as secretary.

This sum will be asked of the county budget commission in July in order to provide more adequate relief for the needy ex-service men, their families and dependents.

It is pointed out that under the law the relief commission would be entitled to receive $27,600.67 on the basis of five-tenths of one mill per dollar on the present tax duplicate of the county but that the commission believes $3,000 will be sufficient to finance relief work.

Sheriff Tate was recently re-appointed a member of the commission for a three-year term. He is a World War veteran. Mrs. Lindsey, widow of a Spanish-American War veteran, was re-appointed for a term of two years, and the new third member is Russell Brewer, near Xenia, Civil War Veteran, appointed for a one-year term.

RE-NAMED MEMBERS OF VISITING BOARD

Mrs. Sarah G. Haller and W. J. Oglesbee, both of Xenia, have been re-appointed members of the Board of Greene County Visitors for terms of three years each by Probate Judge S. C. Wright.

Other members of the board, whose duty it is to inspect county charitable and correctional institutions, are: the Rev. W. P. Hariman, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Cedarville; Mrs. Alice Zeiner, Jamestown; Mrs. Leona G. Brewer, Yellow Springs; and Mrs. Della H. Snodgrass, Xenia.

METROPOLIS GAINS ABOUT 9 PER CENT

NEW YORK, May 30.—Census supervisors here today estimated New York's population would show an increase of approximately 9 per cent over the metropolitan count in 1920. They fix the 1930 count in the neighborhood of 6,150,000.

If the supervisors' estimate is correct, the gain in population will be the smallest in percentage recorded for a decade since the first federal census in 1790.

The estimate was made on returns from thirty assembly districts with 32 still to report.

The count in 1920 was 5,620,048.

It is also estimated that Manhattan island's count will show a decrease in comparison with 1920, showing a continuance of a drift to other boroughs. Queens Borough is expected to show an increase of more than 50 per cent and cross the million mark.
